SOUTH GEORGIA TECHNICAL COLLEGE INITIATIVES

Wally Summers, Sumter County, introduced Dr. John Watford, South Georgia Technical College's (SGTC) new President. Dr. Watford explained that the college serves Crisp, Macon, Marion, Schley, Sumter, and Webster counties.

He said workforce education is the goal of South Georgia Technical College. The "High School Move On Ready" program has almost 500 students enrolled. Students in these classes are able to take some college core classes while in high school and will receive credits that will be accepted in college. He explained that the college partners with some businesses such as John Deer, Kaufman Tire and Caterpillar to train their employees which creates more opportunities for the community. Not only is SGTC involved with existing businesses and industries, but they also work with local community and economic development initiatives to create jobs which helps the local communities. SGTC encourages people that do not have a high school education to enroll in the GED program that the college offers which will help them get prepared for the workforce. He said eighty percent of all jobs require a high school diploma. Dr. Watford said he was excited about this new position and working with the RVRC.

GEORGIA'S ALCOHOL ABUSE PROGRAM FOR THE RVRC REGION

Ed Lee, Community Involvement Specialist for the Hearts of Families organization, gave an informative PowerPoint presentation focusing on the dangers of alcohol abuse, especially in the 21 and under age group, and the negative impact it can have not only on their health but also their future. He explained that according to a national survey twenty-three percent of Georgia's youth consume alcohol before the age of thirteen and twenty-two percent of high school students engaged in binge drinking in the month prior to the survey. Underage drinking is a factor in almost half of all teen automobile crashes and contributes to suicides, homicides and fatal injuries. Twenty-five percent of high school students admitted to riding in a car with someone that had been drinking. Alcohol abuse is also linked to as many as two-thirds of all sexual assaults and date rapes of teens and college students.

Mr. Lee introduced Annie Leggett, Manager for Middle Flint Behavioral Health, who explained the activities that are ongoing in Americus and Cordele to educate youth about the dangers of alcohol. She explained that one goal of Middle Flint Behavioral Health is to inform not only children and teenagers but also parents of the dangers of drinking and their child's health. Ms. Leggett said that the brain continues to develop into the mid-20's and that alcohol abuse at a young age could lead to brain damage, memory problems and harm to other major organs. Underage drinkers are 5 times more likely to become an alcoholic or abuse alcohol than if they wait until the age of 21. Fifty-eight percent of prisoners say they were drinking when they committed the crime they were incarcerated for. Mr. Lee and Ms. Leggett had several brochures available.
